REBELLION.

THETR DECLARED WISHES AND BY EX-GOV. MOREHEAD.

Ex-Governor Morehead, of Kentucky del'vered an address before the "Southern Club" of Liverpool, on the 9th alt, from which we extract the following account of his conver-sations with Messrs. Lincoln and Seward, just after the former appeared so unexpectedly in Washington. He said he was not an original secessionist, but being in the South at the outbreak, and having property in Massissippi, he tried to stem the tide of rebellion: WHAT MR. SEWARD PROMISED AND EXPECTED.

what MR. SEWARD PROMISER AND EXPECTED.

In that state of affairs, says Mr. Morchead, and knowing the course that Mr. Seward—who, it had been announced to us, was to be the pre under of the incoming adamistration—had pursued, I met him, and I do not deem it improper to say here, as I have said on other occasions, that he pledged his sacred honor that there should be no colisions between the North and the South. [Hear, hear.] "Nay," said he, "Governor Morchead," laying his had on my shoulder to make it more emphatic, "let me once hold the reins of power rimly in my hands, and if I don't settle this matter to the entire satisfaction of the South is sixy days I will give you my head for a is to do, not only to my own section—that I know is to be desolated and drenched in the close of humanity itself, and drenched in the came of humanity itself, and I appeal to you, apart from there josts, to lend us your aid and countenance in averting a calamity like that."

Before he replied, Mr. Rives of Virginis got up. We had before that conversed sitting in a semi-circle round the president; but Mr. Rives rose from his chair, and, with a dignity and eloquence that I have seldom heard surpassed in the course of my life, he appealed to him. I could not pretend to give even the subsistance of his speech, but I remember that he told him that he was then a very old man; that there never had been a tarob of his heart that was not Li favor of the perpetuation of the Union; that he came there with a hope and a wish to perpetuate it, and that all his efforts had been exerted in endeavoring. To procure such guarantees as would perpetual: it, but that he desired to say to him—and he said it with a trembling voice—in order that he might know, and not say thereafter that he was not alily warred, that he agreed with every word I had seld with rigard to the horrors of this satisfpated war, and that if he did recort to coercion Virginia would leave the Union and join the secedings. States. "Nay, sir," he said, "old as I am, and dearly as I have loved this Union, in that event I go with all my heart and soul."

Mr. Lincoln fumped up from his chair as Mr. Rives was strading, advanced one step towards him, and said: "Mr. Rives. Mr. Rives was strading, advanced one step towards him, and said: "Mr. Rives. Mr. Rives was strading, advanced one step towards him, and said: "Mr. Rives. Mr. Rives was strading, advanced one of the wiscat things you have ever done. Do trat, and give me and that if he wiscat things you have ever done. Do trat, and give me and that it was."

The people of this State do not consider this war over, and they will not, until every lickan is either exterminated or removed be yout the borders of the State. To do this will consider have anymber of troops. We are in this war over, and they will not, until every incian is either extreminated or removed beyond the borders of the State. To do this will require a large number of troops. We are informed that the removal of the 6th and 7th has necessitated the shandonnent of every post between Fort Ripley and Fort Ridgley.

Under these circumstances but few families will remain north or west of Giencoe. Thore may be no real danger, yet there can be no feeling of security in that section while an Indian remains within the State.

Some contend that we have more troops remaining in the State than we need. Way, then, let us sak, were all the posts between Forta Ripley and Ridgley recently shandoned? If we have such a superabundance of military force it would seem that good judgment would require it to be placed where needed.

The contractors and speculators are the persons that "believe" the Indian war is not over. The governor in his letter officially informed the president that the sear was "virtually at an end in this State."

I do not see, or could not see, had it not lasted so long, how the present state of things can continue. As you will have noticed, McCleina and father-in-ia-w, Marcy, address it eir published reports directly to the presentent, out of official course. The truth is that there is iterally no intercourse between McCleina and Halieck, hi titulat superior or screenry of war, sod that as ragards him, there is note between these gentlemen and the president. They have given up the young Napoteon as utterly incorregible. The General-in-chief is no general-in-chief as regards the army of the E.-St. His department is not much larger than it was when his headquarwers at St. Louis. His orders are disobeyed and he has no power to enforce them.

The government holds tack from publication the report of the military commission on the surrender of Harper's Ferry, "for State rasons," as the secretary of war phrases it, it at is for reasons which it is impossible to state publicly. The fact is, that the findings of the court—a court of irreproachable West Point organization, the majority, Generals Hunter, Cadwellader, and Augur, being old army officers—make a very strong case against a mojor general commanding in the field, and show that he was more seriously to blume, since his responsibility and he resources were greater than Miles or Ford, than even. Wool himself. The publication of that report will do much to open prejudiced eyes. It will come in due time.

His army corps was divided between McOok and Ottic inden, and he given a division to guard railroads. This he will continue to do, I hope, for some time to come.

THE STRAMEN THOMAS SCOTT.—The steamer Thomes Scott, on her way from Cincinnati to this port, was mank on Warawa bar, on Tuodey night. She was loaded with government stores, including 15,000 haversacks, 15,000 soldiers' pantaloons, 10,800 cantenas, 6,000 shirts, 10,000 infantry caps and covers, and 20,000 pairs of shoes. Most of the cargo will be saved in a damaged state.

confidence in me, and the government will allow me, I will superpixed the ou it of this vessel, and do my very best to take the Alabama: but should they desire a better officer, then permit me to recommend to them Captain A. H. Kity, United States Nary, an officer who may be considered the Nelson of the American Nary. W. D. PORTER. I desire no curra pay, and if the vessel is exputered the bounty money can go to pay expenses, dec.

Billi another proposition for the capture of the Alabama is thus set set forth in the Boston Transfler of last evening:

We have conversed with several shipmanters who were captured by the British pirate Alabama, and are convinced that she could be small three masted echousers, if projectly same the season of the Captama that every vessel she has captured has been declined ber, for thus far she has only used her sails.

Any of our three masted schooners cannot declined ber, for thus far she has only used her sails.

of them, had they suspected her, could have ended her, for thus far she has only used her sails.

Any of our three masted schooners cannot only outsail her, but sail around her. She is so long and her mast so badly placed this she cannot be brought round head to the wind; and she is very long in wearing, in being brought to, upon the opposite tack by sailing before the wind. Any sailor can easily comprehend the advantage a smart sailing schooner would have over her. In the first place, the schooner is much lower in the water, and therefore an uncertain mark to fire at, while her opponent is high and cannot well be mi-sed; and I the second place, the schooner, by her greathread to the water, and stability, we consider the schooner ber emperior under canusa, and might destroy her before she could steam up. The Alabama is quite narrow for her depth, is very rapid in her motions—we mean in rolling—and therefore the effectiveness of her stillerly is much imported. In a sea way she might fire fitty shots without striking a schooner.

the adopted as speedily as possible locust short her career.

The New York Post of Monday evaning asys:

"We can assure all who are interested that the government has taken all necessary and possible measures to put a stop to the career of the rebel privateer Alabama. It is not prudent to state what has been done. It is sufficient to know, what we are assured of on the best authority, that such measures were taken and such measure put in operation at once by the navy department as will put a speedy stop to the career of the new robul ship. That the public knows nothing of what has been done shows that the necessary secrecy was well enforced."

The guerillas along their route, notwithstanding the flag of truce, robbed these sick men of all their money, knepsacks, accontrements, &c. and travied them in the most barbarous manner. The impersion here is that the rebels have evacuated not only Muriressboro, but McMinnville, and that they intend to make their "iast dutch" at Chattanoogs.

Propositions to Capture the Alabama

It is understood that the Vanderbilt and two other armed vessels are to be sent at once from New York on a cruise to intercept and destroy the rebel privateer Alabama. The Vanderbilt is one of the fastest ocean stemablys, and will undoubtedly be able to overhand the Alabams if she gets on hertrack. The Vanderbilt is heavily armed, and is so

THE SURRENDER OF HARPER'S

[Correspondence of the New York Tribune.] Washington, November 5, 1862.

Now that the military commission has finished taking testimony in regard to the surrouder of Harper's Ferry, it can do no public injury to allow some of the facts with regard to that transaction to be known. From the statements of officers summoned to give evidence before that commission, and from other sources, we have collected the following, which we think will be found the tallest history yet given of this entire trans

In speed, readiness of evolution, lowness in the water, and stability, we cousider the schooner her superior under canvas, and might destroy her before she could steam age. It is the latention that be should take command at the ferry, he being the senior officer at that points. The Alaboma is quite nerrow for her depta, is very rapid in her motions—we man it is like from the motions—we man it is like from the motions—we man it is like from the motions—we man in a could be superior that the freedom that is like from the serior of his forces at Harper's Ferry, under command a schooner.

In view of these facts, would it not be well as each other in the sarch of this pirate? There is an important as suggestion connected with her enlisting men from the vessels she has captured, while we are taking shout each trail man another vessel, one suitable for piratical purposes will be meaned from these volundeers, and while we are taking shout capturing her rabe may have a set taking shout capturing her abe may have a set of the capturing and the rimbustion of the store of continuous to add her in her lafter of the continuous to add her i obs dience to the orders of the wardepartment.

On the lith of Septomber Gen, McChellan whose bendquartes we then at Rockwile, wrote "to the war department asking that the (10,000) min then under command of Colonel Miles, at Harper's Ferry should be ordered to join min immediately, and thus help to aswell the force of the army of the Potoman. If besiegod they were useless where they then were and in danger, but by joining him they might save themselves and make his victory more seems. To this the obvious answer was, tast, as from his satement it the garricon was besieged, the only way by which the jumention desired could be flected, would before Gen. McClellan to cut his way through the backer Gen. McClellan to cut his way through the backering forces and offset a junction with Col. Miles, from the accessation of our, who is a matter of course that the moment this junction was uffected, Col. Miles, from the accessation of war, would be transferred from the decement of the command.

Due suggestions were carrestly rellevated the control of the command.

Arrived upon the ground, Rabb's battery was placed in position with the customary prompitude of its youthful commander, and at once the six mouths of the fierce, spiteful pieces were heard barking away at the foc, who had retired into the woods—giving forth music that was truly isspiring.

The Ill hand the 6th were formed into line of battle on the right of the position occupied by the 2d, and close up to the woods. Soon also the 1st and 2s Indiana regiments, Cois. Wattles and Pallips, arrived upon the ground, and were placed upon the left, with orders from Gen. Bluat to sweep the woods in a wide circle in that direction and find the enemy—the 6th and Illt sidencing elimitisneously on the right. All went ahead, and some skirmishing casued at different points, but no considerable force of the enemy was overtaken. Again they had fied.

The battery captured yesterday consists of three 6-pounders and one 12-pounder field howitzer, all brass, and supplied with some thirty or forty rounds of ammunition. One of the caissons was knocked to pleees by the shells from our howitzers, and another-handed away. A number of horses were killed—ali the others statched to the guns being captured with them.

THE WAR IN ARKARNAS.

Details of the Victory at Maywille—Gallantry of Gen. Blunt and the Arkansas Regiment—A Triumph Agoisst Great Odds.

We published more than a week sine a brief account by telegraph, of Gen. Blunt's victory over the rebels at Maywille, Ark, on the 22d ult. We find the first details that have been received in a letter to the Lesvonworth Gonarrolies. We quote:

Maywille is almost directly west, (a little to the north.) and some twenty-three miles distant from Bentonville, immediately on the boundary line between Arkansas and the Indian nation. It is seven or eight miles south of the northwest corner of Arkansas. From there some four miles in a southwesterly direction, over an open, beautiful prarie, the empty were found at the edge of the woods, the site of an old United States military garrison long since abandoned.

Gen. Blunt had with him no other force but there companies of the San assas. From there companies of the San assas and the Indian nation. The emperor, without yielding a pec, made an appeal to their loyalty and devotion to his person, not to resign all in a lump, on account of the teandal, and, above all, of the panic at the Bourte, which such a collective step would occasion. They were canvased by the town Beards on Saturday and the results declared as appended. In curvesting the yotes of the South town, the second precinct of the 4th ward and Bridgeport were thrown out entirely, toy informalities which most clearly justified the Board in their action. No returns of all were made from the second precinct of the 4th word, the Board receiving only the hage of votes which o course readers the town-lestion in that precinct void. In the case of Bridgeport the returns were not signed by either of the judges or clerks. This secures the election of the entire South Town Union ticket. The untire Board, Democratic members and all, concurred in the necessity.

The pith of the whole argument was, in fine, that the eath, certified, is made, by law, an essential part of the poll-book, and that it is as necessary it should appear there as that the list of voters, the certificate of the judges, or any other part of the returns should appear on the face of them—and, that this oath not appearing to have been administered, the poll-book is incomplete as a document which the board can receive and act upon. The evidence of election required by law is not here.

Of course all these positions were logenously and earnestly contestedfoy Mr. Fuller and his friends, but we have not the space to reproduce their arguments. had a right to expect. But if there were any mistake on the part of the Commander in-Chief, it was that he has exercised too much leviency and forbearance towards the rebela. He certainly has made one grand mistake, and he and all loyal near now see it. That mistake was in attempting to put down slavery with one hand and to upbeld it with the other. The Democrata in the recent canvars have made it a strong point against the Administration that this war has not been more vigorously prosecuted, and argue that if they had had the relies of government, it would have been very different. Now the facts are, that the President has committed all the parties, for advice, and has been awayed and inflamence by there service. Throughout the whole war then has been a prevailing attempt no thap part of the officers to maintain alawary. REEF CATTLE.

The market ruled very unateady throughout the week. Various causes combine to depress trade. The prices realized in the New York market daring the week were by no means encouraging to operators on eastern account here: next, the Eastern markets are overstocked with medium grade cattle, which served to depress trade there. We may also assign the delays in shipment from this city for the Eastern yards as another cause for the droughq condition of the market here, but the most prominent cause that has served to unsertle the market here is the large receipts of common and inferior grade cattle which were a centinued incaban upon trade. The most causal observer who has attended the market during the week just closed must have seen that the supply of this grade of stock for exceeded the demand, while extra and good quotations were by no means what they ought to be. The rapid advance in coper; a and sall has rendered its point of economy for packers to operate in nothing but earls and good grades, consequently the demand for those classes of cattle were active, while the supply was comperatively small. It will be seen by the above that the receipts for the week just closed were 3,80 head, and at least two-thirds of those were totally unife for the market. Sales for the week were confined principally to medium and common grades at a decline of 56,30c $\mathred{v}$ 100 head, and at least two-thirds of those were totally unife for the market.
